Wolfgang May

March 6-7, 2010

Would you like to improve your dressage scores?
Start the new decade right with Wolfgang May's classical dressage approach.

Wolfgang May served his three-year apprenticeship in Germany at the stable of former German Olympic dressage coach, Walther "Bubi" Gunther. Upon receiving his "Bereiter" certificate he took a position as trainer in Rome. He remained there until he was hired as a dressage trainer and rider in the United States. He trained with the head trainer of the Spanish Riding School of Vienna to familiarize himself with Lippizan horses and their classical training. In 1966-1981 Wolfgang trained and gave exhibitions on the Lippizan stallions of Tempel Farms in Wadsworth. During that time, he was given the opportunity of working with many world-famous trainers, including Hans Irbinger (the head rider of the Spanish Riding School) and Willi Schultheis (German Olympic dressage coach).

He is now based in Texas and travels around the United States to give clinics to all levels.
